

A grade stabilization structure is commonly referred to as a pond; however the purpose of the structure is to stabilize channel grade and control erosion to prevent the formation of gullies.

Above: Rathbun Lake Special Project Coordinator and IDALS Environmental Specialist, Aaron Pickens stands in the gully where a grade stabilization structure will be installed. Below: After structure has been constructed.

